

Businesses daring
enough to push the envelope. A state

bold

enough to invest
in their success.

Tomorrow's technology success stories are being prospected right here—at Purdue University's Research Park in West Lafayette, Indiana. The Purdue Research Park is an incubator program funded in part by Indiana's 21st Century Technology Fund. It's designed to stimulate, promote and enhance new ideas and enterprises of the future, from advanced manufacturing to nanotechnology to the life sciences. Find out how Indiana is turning bold into gold by logging on to www.indianacommerce.com.
